London: 27 February 2018 (10-12pm and 1-3pm)

- Want to share your views and influence the development of a competency and career framework that will be rolled out across Older People's Mental Health practice?
- Have a view about what the framework should look like?
- What do you think the core and specialist competencies should include?

What are the events about?

As part of the commitment to Older People's Mental Health practice, a specialist competency and career framework is being developed. The core competency framework will set out the core competencies, as well as more specialised competencies that will 'skill-up' the workforce to meet the needs of older people with mental health issues (excluding dementia).

We seek input from practitioners, managers and wider stakeholders to help shape and inform the final product.

Who should attend?

- Older people with lived experience of mental health issues, including their family members and carers.
- Staff from every level working with older people experiencing mental health issues.
- Representatives from Professional Colleges.
- Third sector providers who work with older people, such as Age Concern and MIND.
- Staff working for ambulance NHS trusts, fire service, Department for Work and Pensions.
- Principle Social Work network members.
